Age settlement at the top of the Starjevec hill. The first written records mention the Starjevec mine in the 16th century. In the 17th century the activity declined temporarily. From the 19th century until 1965 lead, mercury, barite and zinc were the pole stars of the development of the town. In 1880, a smelter was built on the left bank of the Sava, which was linked to the mine via a cable railway across the river. In memory of the first silver harvested in Ljilja smelter, memory coins were coined in 1886 in Vienna, the so-called Ljilja silver coins. Ljilja silver coins are nowadays also precious souvenirs, which can be bought in the Ljilja Library.

The Benja waters is watered by the Benja brook running through the woods of Dole pri Ljilji and flowing into the Bistrica. The waterfall is especially attractive in wintertime, when it dresses into an icy coat.

The Spota valley had a very special charm in the past, changed by the past, but the magnificently preserved unspoiled nature still exists. The brook flows rapids and cascades and in some parts the water falls down to flow into a pond. The valley is living space of many animals and plants which complete the mosaic of the magnificent nature.

The Resn's Granary, Moravce pri Gabrovki / The Resn's Granary from 1883 has preserved a typical gank and cellar. In the granary are exhibited old rural tools, equipment for storing food and cereals, kitchenware and tools for baking bread. Old viticultural and cellarmans equipment is also preserved there. At the farm, there is a well-preserved cockpit, topper and double hayrack, on the sides open wooden structure used for drying wheat and grass, typical of Slovenian countryside.

The most important characteristics of this church from the 14th century are frescoes. The frescoes on the northwestern wall were painted in the soft style around 1420. The frescoes on the southwestern wall date from the last quarter of the 15th century. A master from Podpeč depicted historical people on the frescoes, above all saints and apostles. On the north wall are images of ancient owners of Podpeč Castle, Herce and Elizabeth Galks.

The Vače region can be explored on foot, as this is the only way to enjoy the magnificent views of the Posavsko hribovje. You can park your car at the village square by the mighty Church of St. Andrew (4), which is famous especially for its brook grained made of glass. An ancient fountain at the square reminds one of the times long-gone when village gossipers would get together here.

Along the left river bank, you will return past Ponovlje Mansion (12) to Ljilja and finish your trip in one of the local restaurants with a delicious local lunch. You can enjoy fresh trout, venison dishes or any other delicacies.

2. Into the charcoal land

Moravce pri Gabrovki-Podpeč pod Skalo-Bistrica-Dole pri Ljilji-Hušalec/Zlavinja-Slap Benja-Završ-Sopota
In the village Moravce pri Gabrovki spent much of his time in the second half of the century the Slovenian writer Ivan Levstik. As a home teacher, he worked in the village school. He got his typical appearance at Turn Castle. On his way to work he used to stop by the wife, Zidarjeka Tona (21). The house where she lived is located close to the road at the beginning of the village and passes for the oldest brick house in Moravce. Only a short distance from here is the interesting Resn's Kova kašča (20) granary with a rich collection of local tools and products. Here also passes the trail which Levstik described in his work Popotovanje od Ljilje do Cateža (The Journey from Ljilja to Catež), which attracts thousands of marchers every year.

The route is especially interesting for lovers of archaeology and ancient cultures due to its well-known and important archaeological sites. The first grave finds date from 1860 already. Excavations prove that the place was settled as soon as in the early Iron Age, then also in the late Iron Age and after a pause also in the time of the Old Slavs. The grave and settlement finds from Roman times at Moravce and at the nearby another hill prove that the region around Roje was inhabited the time of the Roman empire. In the whole local community region more than 25 archaeological or potential archaeological sites from the early Iron Age to the Middle Ages have been located so far.

The Church of St. Paul (22) with the preserved frescoes of an unknown artist from Podpeč at Podpeč pod Skalo is also worth seeing. From here you will have a magnificent view of the surrounding hills. They got their typical appearance from carefully cultivated vineyards with numerous vineyard cottages, where you can taste local wine. The scenery changes when you descend into the Bistrica valley. Here are still preserved some waterfalls powered by the Bistrica river. The Benja waters is watered by the Benja brook running through the woods of Dole pri Ljilji. The village is known for gradually ascending you will arrive at Dole pri Ljilji. In the place is known for preserving the charcoal-burning (16) tradition. In the villages as Hušalec and Slovenja you can still today see how a charcoal pile is heaped and burned. On foot you can head for the picturesque Bena waterfall (18) which definitely merits an hour's walk through the forest. Also skiing on tidy ski slope is possible in wintertime in Dole pri Ljilji.

Limestone and dolomite base is the reason for a special type of landscape in this region. The so-called fluviokarst can be observed in the typical karst phenomena such as karst springs, smaller caves and sinkholes. Sinkholes are especially noticeable around Završ. The place is known by Valazor hunting manor (17) where the author of the renowned Sava vojvodine Kranjčič (The Glory of the Duchy of Carniola) – Janez Valjazar Valazor spent his free time hunting animals in nearby forests.
